Comment/Details about the method of assessment

Student papers in each assessed class were examined using a rubric designed from Bloom's Taxonomy to assign point values from 0 (no evidence) to 3 (good evidence of knowledge) in each of 4 categories. Those scores were totaled for each assignment for a total 12 points possible. A passing score was considered 9 or above. All assessments were examined in a blind fashion without knowledge of the students' names or majors during the time of assessment. Only students who turned in an assignment were evaluated

Courses Affected

Data Collection (general or specific stats regarding results)

A total sample size of 49 participants was utilized from three courses of CJ250. Of those, 17 were Law Enforcement majors and 10 were Law Enforcement with Basic Police Training majors (total of 27 in this sample from both programs). Each sample respectively represented 18% of their individual program enrollments [Total enrollment for Law Enforcement AAA is 94 & 55 for Law Enforcement with Basic Police Training]. Of those sampled, 17/17 (100%) passed in the Law Enforcement Program and 9/10 (90%) passed in the Law Enforcement with Basic Police Training Program. The average pass-rate between the three CJ250 courses assessed on this assignment (excluding those that did not turn in papers), mirrored the results of program assessment at a 91.84%, lending validity to the assessment model. When broken down by the other majors represented in the course, including corrections, with a pass-rate of 85.71% and non-criminal justice majors at 100%, the pass rate seemed stable across all assessed.

What We Learned (areas for improvements, strengths, etc.)

The data appears to show the program is not only meeting, but exceeding standards for this chosen objective with the vast majority of students able to apply professional standards of writing to criminal justice issues. When compared to the prior assessment of this objective in 2017, the pass-rate increased from 89% to 100% for those in the Law Enforcement program and from 87.5% to 90% in the Law Enforcement with Basic Police Training Program.

Use of Data to Improve Student Success

We will not make programmatic adjustment in this area since the program outcomes appear to be met and/or exceeded.
